

GET UP AND FIGHT

War Not Abolished by Lying Down, Says Estabrook.

America Needs New Birth of Independence.

Iola, Kan., Oct. 2.—"What America needs is a new birth of American independence, with the backbone that goes with it," declared Henry D. Estabrook, New York lawyer, one time westerner, here this afternoon on his campaign thru Kansas in the interest of state and national Republicanism. "The people are tired of epinephrine politicians," Estabrook said. "When their manhood is questioned or imposed upon they prefer the rocket's red glare to the splutter of a pinwheel—the roar of cannon to the racket of brassknackers. Paul Revere, of revered memory, was a maker of church bells and cannon, and it was a holy alliance, let his spirit, riding the clouds, shout down to us, warning us of the danger and wickedness of supineness; rousing us once more to healthy and righteous action. For we are still a free people, are we not? We are still engaged with experiment of self-government—trying to work out our own salvation without the guardianship of a king, czar, pope, or potentate.

"The placid assumption of the pacifists, so-called, that preparedness necessarily means war with somebody, or that those who are in favor of it are less concerned than themselves in preserving peace, is on a par with the insolent assumption once made by Mr. Bryan that all those who were in favor of an honest dollar and opposed to the free coinage of silver at sixteen to one were enemies of the common people and wanted to crucify them on a cross of gold.

Kings Must Go.
"But, says the pacifist, war is hell—the curse of the people—and it is time for the people to rise up and put an end to it. Amen, amen! But how? The pacifist would attempt it, not by rising up, but by lying down. How would Chinafying America accomplish the result? The people themselves seldom make war. Only kings make war, and I tell you that so long as there are kings in the world there is bound to be war in the world. We may never hope for universal peace until every king and kingly, prince, and princeling—together with their preposterous claims of divine right—together with all the pomp and fraud of royalty have been extirpated from the earth. The pacifist warns us not to trust our lives and liberties and properties to any army made up of American citizens, but sees no danger in trusting all these to the tender mercies of the armies of Europe and Asia. We have been taught from our youth that eternal vigilance is the price of liberty. We repeat this phrase over and over again as a reminder of our duty. I hope, and not as a mere litany which by mouthing has lost its meaning. And what is eternal vigilance but eternal preparation? The sword of liberty is not a metaphor. So long as tyranny goes unarméd, liberty dare not disarm."

Estabrook speaks tonight at Chautauque.

He abandoned the horse and buggy, and carrying his boy on his shoulder, he tramped for seventeen miles, but again was lost, and kept walking in a circle. He was finally located in an orchard, but had abandoned the boy when the officers were closing around him. The boy was found later.

25 YEARS AGO IN TOPEKA

From the columns of THE TOPEKA STATE JOURNAL.

October 2, 1891.
Jerry Simpson, who speaks at the Grand opera house tonight, arrived from Medicine Lodge this morning. A reporter met him with other friends on the street. "Hello, Jerry," he said, "you see I am still alive." Congressman Simpson is not so hopeful over the election as he was two months ago. "We are going into Ohio to help McKinley out," being asked whether they would get him out, he replied: "It's hard to tell what the result will be."

Some of the Republican papers make it appear as tho no one ever attended any of the Democratic meetings. I went home to Medicine Lodge and the farmers said, "Our Jerry is back. Guess we would better let the plowing rest tomorrow and go down to town and see the old boy." So they came, ten thousand of them.

Dr. Sheldon has returned from Colorado. Miss Kate Whiting and Miss Jennie Stringham have returned from a two months' vacation at Thousand Lakes park.

The largest audience of the season at the Grand theatre was the "Merchant of Venice" by R. D. MacLean and Marie Prescott last evening.

Sam Barnum of the high school class of 91 has passed the required examinations and will enter Harvard college.

The first anniversary of the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. George Walp was celebrated last evening at their home, 301 Clay street. A number of presents were received and refreshments were served. The affair was a complete surprise to Mr. and Mrs. Walp.

Tramp, tramp, tramp, the boys are marching. Is the only solo being sung by the members of the "Eileen company" now.

BLOW TO WILSON

Inside Story of Wescott's Defeat in N. J., Is Related.

President Couldn't Boss Martine, Tries to Oust Him.

Washington, Oct. 2.—The defeat of President Wilson's candidate for senator and the renomination of Senator James Martine in the New Jersey primaries is the severest blow the popular Democratic fallacy that "President Wilson is stronger than his party" has thus far received. Senator Martine's election as senator six years ago was brought about by Mr. Wilson, then governor. Having made Martine senator, Mr. Wilson thought he owned him and when, on one or two occasions, Martine showed some independence and refused to vote as the White House directed, Mr. Wilson became very indignant and decreed that Martine should not return to the senate. Accordingly, he fathered the candidacy of John W. Wescott, attorney general of New Jersey, and caused all the influence of the White House and of the Democratic state machine to be exerted in Wescott's behalf.

Martine Wins by 16,000.

The result speaks for itself. Wescott was defeated and Martine renominated by 16,000 plurality. Democratic politicians in Jersey declare that the rank and file were not especially strong for Martine but they bitterly resented President Wilson's autocratic attitude toward their senator and his interference in the affairs of the state and that Martine's nomination is, therefore, far more of a rebuke for Wilson than a victory for Martine. The victory of Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, the former governor of New Jersey, in the Republican senatorial primaries is a source of especial gratification to the progressive element of the Republican party. Mr. Frelinghuysen's election is regarded as assured.

Theft of Automobiles Prevented

The burglar-proof automobile lock, patents for which are owned by the Automobile Lock and Alarm Company, of Topeka, Kansas, is a new device for Ford cars which has just been perfected.

The company owning the patents on this lock, as well as two others for high power trucks and six-, eight-, and twelve-cylinder cars, is properly chartered under the laws of the state of Kansas and properly safe-guarded by a supervision at the hand of the Secretary of State and the State Bank Commissioner. The capital stock is small, being only $10,000.00, a portion of which is to be offered to the public at $100.00 a share. The funds accruing from the sale of this stock are to be used for the organization of the sales agency and the manufacture of the Ford lock. No commission or promotion is paid on any share of stock sold, and every purchaser participating does so upon the same basis as every other present stockholder.

The directors of this company are Dean T. W. Hughes, I. W. Felix, G. G. Hannon, L. McGrath, Earl Akers, state treasurer, and George A. Clarke, former secretary of state.

Dean T. W. Hughes, of Washburn law school, is the president. W. R. Smith, state printer, is the vice president; and I. W. Felix, of Felix Clothing Co., is secretary.

A limited amount of this stock will be distributed within the next ten days, and subscriptions for same may be sent to Earl Akers, state treasurer, at Topeka, Kansas, who will receipt the remitting applicant direct.

The owners of the patents of this lock, which constitutes all of the patents of G. G. Hannon, L. McGrath and A. K. Knapp of Omaha, Nebraska, are confident that the problem of automobile thievery has been solved, and when an investor stops to remember that this year the Ford Company alone will build and market more than four hundred thousand automobiles it is readily understandable that opportunity for the sale of this lock at $5.00 each will be unlimited.

The lock is a very simple contrivance, absolutely wreck-proof and of such electrical design as to make it impossible for a thief to wire around it, so that the lock once established on a Ford automobile forever precludes the necessity for any automobile insurance against theft and will last the life of the car.

Use the coupon at the bottom of this advertisement to make your application for stock, and act at once if you are interested because of the fact that the amount available is very limited. Parties interested in county rights should address Ilif Felix, Secretary, at Topeka, Kansas, at once, stating their responsibility, the number of Ford cars in the county, and how many locks they will be able to handle each week. A complete card index of every lock—together with number—is to be kept so that the loss of Yale keys can be readily replaced.

INVENTION STOPS AUTO THEFTS

Topeka Company Is on Market With Ingenious Device Which Makes Cars Safe from Thieves.

One of the exhibits at the Big Free State Fair this week that has been attracting the greatest deal of attention, and that is of interest to a number of Topeka people particularly, is the new Ford automobile lock that has just been perfected by a Topeka stock company organization and placed on the market.

All week at the fair it has been in demonstration and the Ford owners—many hundreds of whom have been attending the big fair—have evinced a great deal of interest in it because the fact that for a very little outlay of money they may attach this lock to their car and absolutely prevent its theft. The demonstrators have not attempted to take any orders for the lock, but have put in their time entirely in the demonstration of it. Very shortly the manufacture of the article will go forward, when it will be available to Ford owners.

This lock is an electric contrivance, very small and compact, and fits on the side of the coil lock. The wires that control it are merely those in use on any Ford car that extend from the timer or commutator up to the coil box proper. The connection is made, however, by passing these wires thru the lock. The wires are controlled by a Yale key. If the key is out of the lock the car is securely locked and cannot be started. By the distribution of the commutator wires thru it into the coil box, the insertion of the key in the lock, turning of it to the proper point the contact is made and the car ready for use. So all in all, it is a very simple contrivance and will wear the life of the car without any expense whatsoever. No auto thief can move it unless it is hauled out bodily without the use of the Yale key.

The company owning the patents propose to sell this permanent automobile burglar insurance for $5.00, which makes it a very inexpensive necessary and insures the Ford owner absolute safety.

Dean Hughes, of the Washburn law school, is president of the association having to do with this lock; Ilif Felix, of the Felix Clothing company, is secretary; George A. Clark, former secretary of state; W. R. Smith, present state printer; and Earl Akers, present secretary of the Automobile Lock and Alarm Co., constitute the board of directors. Considerable money has been spent for the perfection of the patents and the testing of the genuineness of the lock itself have been made, so that the secret and tests are clearly past all experimental stages now and can offer it to the public with the assurance that it will do what is claimed for it. The mechanics and electricians who have had to do with the invention and patents have been sent to various automobile centers and consult with the leading automobile engineers and mechanics to make sure that the organization is in possession of an article of commerce that is thoroughly genuine in its production and of value to the purchaser. They have been informed upon repeated occasions that a great many locks have been put on the market and promises and prospects of doing the thing expected of it, but that the first lock that has come to their attention that has completely solved the problem.

Ilif Felix, the secretary of the Automobile Dealers' association, of Kansas City, in conversation with one of the directors of the association, informed him that the theft of Ford cars was getting to be a very serious problem, particularly in cities larger ones, and he predicted a great success for this new Topeka organization. The cause of the fact that they had solved the problem of automobile burglary.
